Introduction to the Liturgy of the Word
Second Sunday in Ordinary Time

Our understanding of John the Baptist pulls details from all four Gospels. The main idea is the same: John proclaimed a message of repentance as he baptized people in the Jordan River. All reference Isaiah identifying John as the one who prepares the way for the messiah, who humbly professes his unworthiness as he points to the one who will baptize not with water, but the fire of the Holy Spirit, the same Spirit that descends upon Jesus like a dove. Only Matthew and Mark mention that John dressed in camel hair and a belt, exactly like the prophet Elijah. Luke skips this detail, but provides John's nativity alongside that of Jesus, identifying their mothers as cousins, telling of how baby John leaped in the womb of Elizabeth in response to Mary's greeting. If Jesus and John are cousins, many wonder why in the Gospel of John, the Baptist would say he doesn't know him, not once, but twice. Up until this point in their lives, it's possible that John only saw Jesus as his cousin the carpenter but was now coming to a deeper understanding seeing him in a whole new way, testifying that Jesus is the Son of God. Or perhaps the tradition from which John the Evangelist was writing this Gospel was not aware of the family connection. John's reputation as an outspoken prophet drew people's attention from all over the whole region. His appearance, tone, and message of repentance reminded people of the prophets, so much so that they repeatedly asked if he was one of them or even the long-awaited messiah. By today's standards, John the Baptist could be considered as an influencer. He had a lot of followers and people listened to what he had to say. It could have been easier for John to give the crowds the answer they wanted, even just saying yes to being Elijah or Moses. Instead, he says no. He refuses to be someone he knows he is not. Therein, John models tremendous humility. He acknowledges God as the source of his influence and credits God with his insights.

Stewardship Thought

"Now the Lord has spoken who formed me as his servant from the womb..." Isaiah 49:5

God has given each of us different gifts. In order for God's plan to work, you have to do what God is calling you to do and I have to do what God is calling me to do. And guess what? God has given each of us a different plan! So, stop comparing yourself to others. Don't let envy and jealousy enter your life. Be thankful for the gifts God has given you and become the saint that God is calling you to be.

Winter Weather Worries

Winter weather is here and that means ice and snow may make it difficult for some people to get to church and many "Snowbirds" take flight to Florida for the Winter months. But parish bills keep growing during the winter, including increased heating costs and snow removal expenses. You can make sure your parish support doesn't stop just when we need it the most. Check out our simple, safe and secure online giving program at SAINTBERNARDBROOKLYN.COM then click on the DONATE button and you will be guided through the giving process. You can donate from your Cell Phone. Simply text SUNDAY to 516-400-4140 and you will be guided through the giving process. Envelope users can just place their envelope in the collection basket or mail it to the Parish. We are truly grateful for your vision and your commitment to maintaining our Parish as a beacon of faith and hope for others. Thank you for your support and prayers throughout these challenging times. Please consider joining the growing number of dedicated givers! We are most grateful to all those who make every effort to give consistently whether electronically or through the weekly offering basket. It really helps us plan and meet our budget.
