Introduction to the Liturgy of the Word
Palm Sunday

Today, we celebrate Palm Sunday. Jesus has entered into the city of Jerusalem on a donkey, and his followers and disciples celebrate his return to Jerusalem. The Gospel passage of that event is read at the beginning of Mass today. In contrast, during the Liturgy of the Word, we hear the story of Jesus' crucifixion. With these readings, we prepare ourselves for the holiest week of our liturgical year. We hear that Jesus is mocked, tortured, and crucified. The people walking by and witnessing this horrific event wonder why he does not save himself. This question recalls Jesus' temptation in the desert by Satan, from the beginning of Lent. Jesus refuses to save himself, refuses the power offered to him during his time in the desert. And he refuses to do so again. Listening to this Gospel passage focuses us on the week ahead but also prepares us for the upcoming experience of Easter Sunday. We know that the story does not end with his crucifixion. But this week, we sit with this story. The man who came to save us is humiliated, tortured, mocked, and hung on a cross to die. He dies for those who punished him, for those who mocked him, and for all of us. The death of Jesus is not fair, and is not right, but it is necessary to forgive the sins of God's people and heal the world broken by sin. The magnitude of Jesus' death is evidenced by the darkness that comes over the earth. An earthquake rips through the earth as well. Even though Jesus knew that his death was inevitable, as he was predicting it throughout the Gospel, his humanity is clearly evident in this passage as he cries out in pain to God. We can focus on his divinity, which those witnessing the event do by demanding that he save himself; instead, Matthew, the Gospel writer, shows us the human side of Jesus in his suffering and death. This can be a difficult passage to hear and a difficult passage to meditate on but it prepares us for the week ahead as we enter into this journey to the cross.

Stewardship Thought

"As they were marching out, they came upon a man of Cyrene, Simon by name; this man they pressed into service to carry his cross." Matthew 27:32

The Lord calls us to love God and to love our neighbor. Every day we are presented with opportunities to love our neighbor and help him "carry his cross." These opportunities aren't usually big events, they are usually ordinary occurrences like helping someone carry their groceries or holding the door open for them. The key is putting the other person's needs before our own and not expecting anything in return.
