Introduction to the Liturgy of the Word
Divine Mercy Sunday

Today, we hear the story of Thomas. Jesus appears to the disciples while they are locked away from the rest of the world. The disciples are followers of Jesus, and they fear for their lives. They think that they will be persecuted, just as Jesus was. When Jesus appears to them, he first offers them peace. These words of Jesus are the words that we speak to one another during the Liturgy of the Eucharist at Mass. Jesus speaks these words to calm the disciples who are worried and probably wondering why and how Jesus is back with them. They see the wounds in his side and hands and begin to understand that he is the messiah, who has come back to teach them a little bit more before he ascends to heaven. Jesus breathes on the disciples, and in so doing, he bestows upon them the gift of the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit is the third person of the Trinity. The Holy Spirit is breathing and moving among us right now, in our time. It enables us to be courageous and brave, kind and compassionate, and to follow closely in Jesus' footsteps. Once the disciples have this experience, they are changed. Yet, one disciple is missing from this encounter, Thomas. Though the disciples inform him of Jesus' visit, he does not believe. After the violent events of the crucifixion, it is understandable that Thomas is unsure of their claim. He needs to encounter Christ as they have, in order to believe, which has earned him the unfortunate nickname "Doubting Thomas." Doubting in our faith life is not always a bad thing. It can help us to come to a deeper understanding of the truth of our belief. When we feel doubt, we must persist in finding the truth, in turning to Jesus, and encounter God in our lives. For Thomas, his deeper understanding of faith was to proclaim Christ as Lord and God. What a wonderful revelation! Our faith demands that we believe without seeing, often without concrete evidence. This is the true measure of faith because we might not have the chance like Thomas and the other disciples to encounter Jesus physically. Our faith is built on belief and is supported by the community of faith that surrounds us.

Stewardship Thought

"Jesus came and stood among them and said to them, 'Peace be with you.' "John 20:19

Are you good at making people feel welcome? When you meet someone new, like a new neighbor, a new work colleague or a new parishioner, do you make them feel at home? When we make people feel welcome, we make them feel like they are included instead of excluded. We are made for relationships – with God and each other. When you see yourself as a beloved son or daughter of God, you tend to see others the same way, too – just as God, Our Father, sees us. The Christian steward approaches life with an "Easter vision" rooted in gratitude for the salvation our Lord has won for us through His death and Resurrection. Today's readings on this Divine Mercy Sunday teach us how this approach plays out in daily life and remind us that we can have complete trust in the mercy of God to lead us, step by step, to heaven. Our first reading, from the Acts of the Apostles, describes this beautiful way of life as it was practiced by the first Christians. "They devoted themselves to the teaching of the apostles and to the communal life, to the breaking of the bread and to the prayers." And, "They ate their meals with exultation and sincerity of heart, praising God and enjoying favor with all the people." This is a snapshot of the very first community of Christian stewards living out their daily life — embracing prayer (the breaking of the bread), formation (the teaching of the apostles), hospitality (the communal life and fellowship through joyful meals together), and mutual service. What an inspiration to us modern-day stewards! The Easter season is not the time to let up in the practice of our faith now that Lent is behind us. Rather, it is a time to live our faith with deeper joy and gratitude as we bask in the celebration of our Lord's victory over sin and death for us. St. Peter summarizes this Easter outlook eloquently in our second reading. Our daily lives should be a reflection of this attitude: "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who in his great mercy gave us a new birth to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, to an inheritance that is… kept in heaven for you." St. Peter acknowledges that life can be difficult, saying, "In this you rejoice, although now for a little while you may have to suffer through various trials." Certainly, it is challenging to live for heaven when the things of the earth — job stress, family crises, health troubles, political strife — loom large on the horizon. We can find ourselves becoming cynical like the Apostle, Thomas, in our Gospel passage today — until he had an encounter with the merciful Savior. We all recall the famous line from Thomas, who was not present with the other Apostles during Jesus' first appearance after the Resurrection. Beaten down by the events of the last several days, Thomas refuses to believe that the others had indeed "seen the Lord" as they claimed. Thomas stubbornly declares he would not believe their story about the Lord unless he placed his finger into the nail marks and his hand into His side. Yet, these doubts did not repel our Lord. They actually drew Him to Thomas in an extraordinary way. Our merciful Lord saw pain and disappointment beneath the hubris in Thomas' statement. Our Lord is mercy itself. And so He did not condemn Thomas, but calmed his doubts and fears, and allowed Thomas to actually touch those Sacred Wounds. What amazing grace!

When we are tempted to give in to doubts about our faith for whatever reason, all we need to do is seek the Lord — in prayer, in the sacraments, through the encouragement of our Christian communities — and just as He did for Thomas, our Lord will mercifully restore our Easter vision and fill us with His joy and peace.
