Introduction to the Liturgy of the Word
Twenty-Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time

We can imagine that when Peter asked this question of Jesus, he might have been looking for an easy answer like, "Just these many times." Although Jesus gives a number, seventy-seven times, we aren't meant to take it literally so that on the seventy-eight time someone is out of like. Rather, Jesus expands his answer and the disciples' understanding of forgiveness by telling them a story that better illustrates what it means to forgive. Sometimes our parents and teachers do this as way of instructing us about what is really important. This is good because it helps us to grow, but I'm sure it is still frustrating sometimes to receive that type of answer! Jesus wants Peter to not just get an answer to his question; he wants to transform Peter's heart to a deeper understanding of what it means to forgive and what purpose forgiveness has in the Christian life. In the story, a king is moved with pity by a servant's plea to forgive his debt. Perhaps the king had once experienced the grace of forgiveness. He knew the power it had in his own life and at this moment, he chose to extend that grace to someone else. If we know love, we are able to love more fully, if we know kindness, we are more ready to give kindness. In this beautiful moment of forgiveness in the Gospel, we hope that the servant is moved by his own forgiveness that he continues to "pay it forward" with those he interacts with. But as we continue to read, his hear isn't quite ready yet and he does not have mercy on his fellow servant. The master ends up calling the servant back, telling him how he failed and then punishing him for his behavior. We don't always act with mercy and love toward others. It is challenging, even though God continues to act toward us with those qualities. Deep in our hearts, we all want to love like Jesus does. That desire is what carries us through this Christian life. We have to want to be like Jesu and try every day to love like him, forgive like him, and be graceful with others like he is with us. Forgiving from the hear is at the core of living out our Christian life.

Stewardship Thought

"For if we live, we live for the Lord, and if we die, we die for the Lord; so then, whether we live or die, we are the Lord's." – Romans 14:8

This is the essence of stewardship – everything we have and everything we are is a gift from God. We aren't "owners" of anything, we are merely "stewards" of the gifts that God has given us, especially our very own lives. Pray to God, daily, and ask Him how He is calling you to live the life that He intended for you.

Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults

The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (R.C.I.A.) is a process by which a person prepares to become a member of the Roman Catholic Church. The process is one of inquiry, evangelization, prayer, study and conversion, leading to one's entrance into the church through Baptism, Confirmation and the Eucharist. RCIA welcomes the unbaptized as well as those baptized in other Christian traditions. RCIA also welcomes those who have been baptized Catholic but who have not completed their sacraments of Eucharist or Confirmation.

Anyone who is interested in participating in this program is asked to call the Rectory now and speak to Deacon Frank.

HONOR VS. LOVE

Honor and love are not the same things. The difference is that "love" means to have a strong affection for someone or something or to be praised. Honor is to think highly, to respect highly, to show respect for, or to recognize the importance or spiritual value of. Now that we know the difference, how can you show it?
