Introduction to the Liturgy of the Word
Thirty First Sunday In Ordinary Time

HEAR O ISRAEL

In last Sunday's Gospel reading regarding the incident with the blind man Bartimaeus, we recall that our Lord called out to him. We reflected on the fact that God is continually calling us and raised the question as to how well we are hearing and responding to that call. The question may be raised as to what our Lord is calling us to or about. That question is answered in today's Gospel reading from St. Mark as well as the Book of Deuteronomy.

In both readings we hear the words, "Hear, O Israel!" Notice the exclamation. It is not a suggestion and not even an invitation, but rather a command. Yet a command not based on a king commanding his subjects but a command of Someone who has something of great and eternal importance to tell us, so "hear!"

In the Gospel reading Jesus is simply repeating what is in the Book of Deuteronomy which shows forth the importance of the teaching. What is our Lord calling us to do? To love God with our whole heart, mind, soul and strength. It is noteworthy that we are not just told 'to love' but 'how' to love. Most of us know from experience that words and emotions like love can be tossed about freely and loosely. We sing songs about it, watch movies about it, talk about it, but for many people it remains elusive in its purest form. Many say they love God but live their lives as if God does not even exist. Others say they love others but do little to help them. Our Lord then tells us the 'how' of love. It is not an emotion or feeling, even less so about satisfying the self. It is a choice to give ourselves freely in self-sacrificial love to the other, be it God or all those we encounter in our life journey.

To love God with our whole heart is to make God and His Will the center of our lives, the defining reality of who we are and how we live. From this love all human love flows for as St. John tells us, "God is love." God's love is self-gift even to the Cross at Calvary. When we truly have the love of God in our hearts, we intuitively know how to love others.

To love God with our whole soul is to make our very lives a "dwelling place for God in the Spirit." The more our love and fidelity grow the greater the room we have in our lives for God to dwell within us.

To love God with our whole strength is to recognize that all we have and accomplish comes from God as gift. It is to have a humble and grateful heart.

To Love God with our whole mind is to conform our wills to the will of God as God speaks to us in Sacred Scripture, the life and teachings of His body the Church, in the Commandments and the Beatitudes, the law of love, and the natural law which has the imprint of God's will written in it.

In today's Gospel reading Jesus does extend Deuteronomy's teachings by adding that we are to love our neighbor as ourselves. As we recognize our dignity as sons and daughters of God, brothers and sisters of the one Christ, and dwelling places and temples of the Holy Spirit so we recognize that reality in all those we meet without exception or distinction. We therefore reverence God in everyone's person.

To be sure, living all of this all of the time is not easy. Our willfulness particularly can get in the way of conforming our wills to the mind of God. Loving lovable people is easy but what about those who are troublesome and worse? Nevertheless, difficulty does not mean impossibility; nor does it excuse us from making every sincere effort to embrace these teachings.

As with all things, God calls us and tells us to hear Him for our benefit. As we read at the end of this Sunday's Gospel reading, those who do so "are not far from the Kingdom of God." The Kingdom of God is not a place but a relationship of abiding joy, knowing Emmanuel "God is with us." This is the gift that is offered. The prescription for achieving this gift is manifest in this Sunday's readings. As always, the Sacred Scriptures call us to ask ourselves, "Do we hear God calling? If not, who then are we hearing? How we answer that call will determine how we live in this world and how we may live in the life to come.

Stewardship Thought

"And 'to love him with all your heart, with all your understanding, with all your strength, and to love your neighbor as yourself' is worth more than all the burnt offerings and sacrifices." (Mark 12:33)

Of all the gifts that God gives us, the one He wants the most is our heart. He wants us to share out of our love for Him, not out of obligation. Using our talent in parish ministry and contributing money to support our parish mission is important, but it's more important to spend time in prayer with God daily and discern how He is calling us to be generous with all of our gifts. Not just the visible ones, but the invisible ones like love, mercy and forgiveness.
