Introduction to the Liturgy of the Word
Fourth Sunday of Lent

HE HAS COME TO LIFE AGAIN

The parable of the prodigal son which we hear this fourth Sunday of Advent is one of the most familiar stories in all of Sacred Scripture. Countless non-Christians and non-believers are well aware of it as the parable has universal application. A wayward and ungrateful son; a life of dissipation followed by regret; an awakening of wisdom to recognize all that was lost; and a confident hope that he could turn back and "come to life again." This scenario plays itself out countless times every day in many different settings and the idea of restoration and renewal strikes a cord in nearly everyone. As we turn to the parable, we need to recognize the severity of what the younger son was asking. It was not simply 'give me the money.' In order for anyone to receive an inheritance, the person who leaves the money and property has to die. The son is telling the father in not so many words, to die. It had to have a stinging effect on the father to hear his son wish him dead so he could get his share and move on. This is the man, who with his wife, gave the son life, shared with him all the resources he had; clothed him and fed him and gave him a place to live, sheltered him and protected him as he was growing up. The depth of the younger son's ingratitude was immense. It is likely the reason why the older son who had remained faithful to his father was so angry at his father's welcoming his brother back with open arms, without scolding or conditions. How can the father welcome back such an ingrate who wished him dead? Yet welcome him back he did. In fact, the father does not only welcome his son back into the family home, he goes out of his way to meet him half way. It is difficult for us to understand this unconditional love. How many hold grudges against family members, former friends, neighbors, or coworkers? How many will not forgive because of wounds received? How many seek revenge rather than reconciliation or choose condemnation rather than forgiveness? This is due to our fallen nature which makes our love imperfect. Yet we are not left in this condition. Through our baptism into Christ, and the new life we receive through water and the Spirit, we are made a new creation. While the effects of original sin persist, they no longer need hold sway over us. We can rise above our broken human nature to our super-nature where we can love as God does. If this sounds like a tall order, we need to remember the words of our Lord who tells us "to be perfect as your heavenly Father is perfect." In other words, love as God loves. While it is certainly no easy task nevertheless our Lord does not call us to the impossible. We also should take note of the fact that the prodigal son's return to the father was not motivated by the purest of motives. He is hungry and financially broke. There is food and a good way of life awaiting him back in his father's house. Some may see this dubious motivation as something that would exclude him from a welcome home by the father. Yet the father, in his wisdom, recognizes that his son came to his own wisdom in recognizing that outside the father's house everything is a dark shadow by comparison. Similarly, when we leave the father's (God's) presence, His love, and His house the Church, we too will eventually find ourselves, if not in a dark place, certainly not in the place of full light and peace. Like the prodigal son we try to navigate the road of life in doubt, fear, confusion, and uncertainty. In the father's house awaits all that we need. The parable of the prodigal son invites us to accept God's mercy, His 'welcome home' when we sin and fail; but it is also a call to imitate the father in extending unconditional love and forgiveness to others, for as Jesus says, "the measure we measure out to others will be measured out to us."

Stewardship Thought

"No longer was there manna for the Israelites, who that year ate of the yield of the land of Canaan."
- JOSHUA 5:12

Over the forty years that the Israelites journeyed through the desert, God provided them with manna to eat. As soon as they were able to enjoy the fruits of the Promised Land the manna ceased. Likewise, God's blessings to us may change over the years but it is important to trust that God will always provide us with all that we need.
