Introduction to the Liturgy of the Word
The Most Holy Body & Blood of Christ

THIS IS MY BODY

Up until the Protestant Reformation all Christians, both of the Eastern and Western Churches, acknowledged what Christians have believed since the time of the Apostles, that the bread and wine consecrated at Mass by the invocation of the Holy Spirit and the priest's words of consecration, truly become the Body, Blood, Soul, and Divinity of our Lord Jesus Christ. This belief was universal until the 16th century when for more political than theological reasons, those who rebelled against the Church insisted the bread and wine are merely symbolic of Jesus' body and blood. There are a number of reasons to refute this. First, to believe that the Holy Spirit guides the Church into all truth, as our Lord Himself promised, and then to say that for 1600 years the Holy Spirit led the Church into error on its teaching on the Eucharist, is profoundly contradictory. Why would the Holy Spirit guide the Church into such error for so long a period of time? It is similar to saying that the Bible is the inerrant Word of God but that the Church which gave us the Bible is in error on the Eucharist. If it is in error on the Eucharist then why not say the same regarding the Bible. These are glaring contradictions. Eucharistic faith preceded the Bible as did the oral tradition in spreading the Faith. Second, our Lord was very clear with everything He taught. His words, "This is my Body; this is my Blood" would contradict Jesus' clarity in speech if He meant them as symbolic. Better to have said this is a symbol of my Body and Blood. Jesus does not equivocate on His teaching. Third, as we read the great discourse on the Bread of Life in St. John's Gospel, most of the followers of Jesus who heard Jesus say things like "eat my flesh and drink my blood", and "who eats my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life within them", were so taken aback by those words that they walked away from Him. Rather than calling them back to Himself to clarify a symbolic meaning which would not have been troublesome to anyone, He lets them go in their unbelief and turns to the remaining twelve with the pointed question, "Is this teaching too much for you to bear also?" Again, there is nothing difficult to bear if our Lord is speaking symbolically, similar to a teacher telling students to drink in my words or my lessons. Fourth, St. Paul does not record the miracles or the parables of Jesus in His writings. He already is aware that the people he visits or writes to have largely heard the Gospel. He visits and writes to encourage, and when necessary, to admonish. Yet the one thing he does take from the Synoptic Gospels (Matthew, Mark, and Luke) is seemingly the most insignificant part of the Last Supper or Passover gathering. Paul ignores the prayers and blessings as well as the festive meal itself. Rather, he focuses on the institution of the Eucharist writing to the Corinthians, that Jesus "took the bread, blessed and broke it and gave it to His disciples saying, 'take and eat for this is My Body given up for you.'" And the same with the Cup, "this is the cup of My Blood"; then the great commission which lays out the importance and essential place of the Mass, "Do this in memory of Me." Paul goes on to say that "whoever eats this Bread and drinks this Cup unworthily eats and drinks condemnation to Himself for he blasphemes against the Body and Blood of Christ." These words make no sense if we are talking about a mere symbol or piece of blessed bread. They only make sense if the bread and wine are truly the Body and Blood of Christ. Fifth, the Roman authorities in the time of the early Church accused the Christians of cannibalism due to the known fact even outside the Church, that Christians gathered on the Sabbath to eat the Body and Blood of Jesus in the Eucharist. The authorities did have things misunderstood as they said the early Christians were eating the body and drinking the blood of a dead man. Athenagoras, an early apologist for the Christian faith, would explain to the Roman Emperor that cannibals do indeed eat the flesh of the dead but in the Eucharist Christ is alive. We once again see the faith of the early Christians in acknowledging that the Eucharist is the living body and blood of Christ in the form of bread and wine. It is sadly true that many of our fellow Catholic Christians do not have this Eucharistic faith that traces itself to Christ Himself. Others are indifferent, while others ignore the teaching so that they can ignore the Mass, especially on the Sunday Sabbath. To come to the Mass and the Eucharist may mean a conversion of life and conscience which many refuse to do. Yet our Lord's words, "if you do not eat the Flesh and drink the Blood of the Son of Man you will not have life within you" still resonate. Many, even within the Church community, at least those who are nominally Catholic or are just cultural Catholics by birth with no affinity for the Faith or even our Lord Himself, are depriving themselves of this greatest of gifts, the 'food for the journey' to the Kingdom, "the foretaste of the banquet feast of heaven". It is also important that we take stock of our own comportment at the Mass where Christ is present in the Tabernacle as well as at the consecration. Do we come early to Mass to prepare ourselves spiritually? Do we observe a proper sense of quiet in the Church in acknowledgement of Christ's Real Presence and to allow others to pray? Some come to Mass early in our churches to socialize with little recognition of Christ in the Tabernacle and little to no regard for those who do come to the church early to pray. How about our dress? We dress one way to go to a banquet and another to go to a fast-food place for "junk food." Does our dress say we are going to the Lord's banquet or for "junk food?". Though none of us is worthy of the Eucharist in ourselves we should examine our conscience to see if we are living in accordance with the teachings of Christ and His Church. As the writer George Weigel notes, have no idea how much damage the constant barrage of sacrilegious Communions do to the Church and the Eucharist. The Eucharist is the heart of the Church because Jesus is the heart of the Church as well as her Head. It is the most important action of the priesthood and the most important act of participation for Christians that our Lord has given to us as a means of remaining present to us in love. We return that love by adoration and by faithful reception as we develop a greater sense of respect and reverence of the Eucharistic Lord Who is with us now and forever.

Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults

The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (R.C.I.A.) is a process by which a person prepares to become a member of the Roman Catholic Church. The process is one of inquiry, evangelization, prayer, study and conversion, leading to one's entrance into the church through Baptism, Confirmation and the Eucharist. RCIA welcomes the unbaptized as well as those baptized in other Christian traditions. RCIA also welcomes those who have been baptized Catholic but who have not completed their sacraments of Eucharist or Confirmation. Anyone who is interested in participating in this program is asked to call the Rectory now and speak to Deacon Frank.

Stewardship Thought

"They all ate and were satisfied. And when the leftover fragments were picked up, they filled twelve wicker baskets." (LUKE 9:17)

The story of the Loaves and Fishes shows us that when you share what you have, even if it doesn't seem like that much, miracles can happen! Do not think that your gift is too small or insignificant! Each of us has a role in God's plan; you just need to place your trust in the Lord. Nothing is impossible with God. You just may be the answer to someone else's prayer.

We will be selling Our Lady of Mount Carmel Candles that you can memorialize, raffle tickets & 50/50 boxes right outside the church from 5:00pm-10:00pm through Thursday, July 24th through Sunday, July 27th
