Stewardship Thought

"What profit would there be for one to gain the whole world and forfeit his life?"

- MATTHEW 16:26

St. Francis of Assisi said, "Remember, you are what you are in the eyes of God, and nothing else." We often forget this stewardship wisdom when we spend all of our time, talent and treasure to gain more of the world's riches. We need to set our priorities based on God's values and not the values of the material world.

THE HOUND OF HEAVEN

The English poet Francis Thompson wrote these words to describe his relationship with God. As much as he tried to evade God he nevertheless came across time and again God trying to break into his life. There are many ways that God "hounds" us and tries to break into our lives. Sometimes he will use ordinary circumstances of our lives, people we encounter, inspirations that come to us. At other times He will use times of personal struggle and difficulty to call us back to Himself. Francis Thompson came to recognize one very important fact. God loves us too much to leave us to our own devices as we can do a great job of messing up our lives and beyond; and while God always respects free will He will nevertheless make every effort to point our wills to His own. In the first reading this Sunday from the prophet Isaiah we find the young prophet going through much the same as Francis Thompson would go through millennia later. While he says he has been "duped" by God, found God "too strong" to resist, and did not even want to mention His name, nevertheless God and His name "become like a fire burning" in his heart. Encountering the living God Jeremiah has no choice but to live for Him and proclaim His goodness and love. Jeremiah was human like the rest of us. He also has his fears and concerns about what it would mean to follow God unreservedly. He acknowledges that he faces mockery, derision, reproach, and is an object of laughter. It is easy to see why the prophet would try to run from God. Yet wisdom guides him to stop and allow God to catch up with him and reveal Himself to Jeremiah. In the Gospel from St. Matthew our Lord begins to reveal His own eventual suffering. Adding to that he opens the disciples to the same reality for themselves. Peter rebukes Jesus; but is Peter fearing for our Lord or possibly for himself or perhaps a little of both? Jesus then reminds Peter and the others of a profound truth. Yes, it might look and sound good to gain everything the world has to offer but what good is it if we forfeit our souls and our eternal salvation in the process. As with Jeremiah and Francis Thompson our Lord is inviting us the become still and allow Him to reveal Himself to us for as Jesus says in this Sunday's Gospel, "the Son of Man will come with His angels in His Father's glory." This glory is the gift the Lord offers to those who allow Him into their lives. We oftentimes hear about people searching for God. Yet these readings this Sunday tell us something very different. God is searching for us. We do not have to go to all sorts of lengths to find God. We just need to be still, have a sincere desire for truth, goodness, and beauty, and trust that God will bring us to good pastures. As we saw recently in the life of the prophet Elijah, all he had to do was be still in the crevice of the rock and listen. Listen he did to the voice of God in the "tiny whisper." If we can do what Elijah, Jeremiah and Francis Thompson did we will find the "hound of heaven" constantly trying to break into our lives.
